Ministry of Labour and Employment, Government of India

HALF DAY TRAINING PROGRAMME ON “CONTROL OF INDUSTRIAL NOISE AND VIBRATION” 22nd January, 2021 (10.00 - 13.00 Hrs)

About DGFASLI

DGFASLI is an attached office of the Ministry of Labour & Employment, Government of India and serves as a technical arm to assist the Ministry in formulating national policies on occupational safety and health in factories and docks. It also advises factories on various problems concerning safety health, efficiency and well-being of the persons at work places.

Background

Exposure to vibration is frequently associated with exposure to noise in industrial processes since the two often originate from the same operation. The adverse effects resulting from exposure to noise and to vibration are quite different in nature, the former having a more substantial basis than the latter for establishing a cause and effect relationship both qualitatively and quantitatively.

Programme Preamble

Elevated noise levels may lead to a number of adverse health effects, including elevated blood pressure and sleep interference, and may also interfere with communications in the workplace, thus contributing to the occurrence of accidents. The most serious effect is irreversible hearing impairment, resulting from damage to the delicate hearing mechanism of the inner ear. There is no cure for hearing impairment the only solution is prevention. Most occupational noise exposure can be minimized by the use of engineering controls to reduce the generation of noise at its source. Administrative controls and hearing protective devices can further reduce noise exposure.

TOPICS

- Essentials of Noise and Vibration
- Measurement of Noise and Vibration
- Medical characteristic of Hearing
