About DGFASLI

The Directorate General Factory Advice Service and Labour Institutes (DGFASLI) is an attached office of the Ministry of Labour & Employment, Government of India and serves as a technical arm to assist the Ministry in formulating national policies on occupational safety and health in factories and docks. It also advises on various issues concerning safety, health, and well - being of the employees at workplaces.

The Ministry of Labour and Employment has created the Construction Advisory Service (CAS) division in DGFASLI head quarters in the month of June 2021. This division will be undertaking training, consultancy and studies pertaining to the construction sector.

Background

The India's construction industry is its second largest employer and contributor to the economy, after agriculture. The sector relies on unorganized labour and is the biggest job provider. At present the industry is witnessing a massive growth, which is posing great challenges to the safety and professionals.

The construction workers are exposed to high risks such as fall from height, struck by falling objects, electrocution, etc. The construction works involves specialized activities such as scaffolds, excavation, tunneling, etc. Therefore, the training of employees and supervisors employed in the construction sites on safety and health is another big challenge.

Fall from height is the biggest cause of accidents in the construction sector. Therefore focused efforts are required to train people on the subject of working at height.

This training program aims at giving an insight on various aspects of working at height and the safety measures to be adopted to prevent occupational injuries and diseases.
